Trolley, Bus Strike Halts Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Trolley and bus operators of Pittsburgh's main transit system struck at dawn Sunday for higher pay, paralyzing mass transportation in the nation's 12th largest city—steel center of the world.

Transportation experts said it may turn out to be the most crippling transit walkout in the city's history.

Service on most lines of the Pittsburgh Railways Co. came to a halt promptly at 4 a.m. (EST) as scheduled. A company official said a few operators finished runs later. Only about 50 trolleys were operating at the time and there was little inconvenience to the public. No buses were running.

Some 2,700 members of Division 65, AFL, Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees, are involved in the strike—first mass transportation walkout by operating employees in the steel city since 1924.

Headed by Mayor David L. Lawrence, a volunteer mediation panel composed of business and labor leaders conferred with union and company officials for nearly seven hours in an effort to win a postponement. Federal and state mediators also joined in the parley.

But these feverish last-minute peace efforts proved of no avail as neither side budged from its position.

Union and management officials met with the Mayor again in the afternoon but no progress was reported.

Pittsburgh railways operates all of its city's trolleys and many of its buses. More than a dozen small bus firms provide additional service—but on a limited scale.

The transit firm is the primary link between the outer reaches of the city and the golden triangle—shopping, business and entertainment center.

An average of 200,000 workers ride to and from their jobs each day on the company's street cars and buses. Thousands of other residents depend on the system for shopping trips.

Population of Pittsburgh's greater metropolitan area is the neighborhood of 2,200,000. Some 700,000 live within the city limits.

Border Fight Fatal For 2 Israeli Men

JERUSALEM (AP)—A high Jordan official charged Sunday that a band of 90 Israelis attacked the Jordan village of Illin in the Hebron area Sunday, and fired on an investigating U.N. team after two Israeli soldiers were killed.

He said Jordan national guardsmen and Arab Legion troops repulsed the attack in which an Israeli officer and an Israeli private were left dead.

The official, Dr. Yusef Haikal, senior Jordan delegate to the Mixed Armistice Commission, asked for an emergency meeting of the commission Monday to study two complaints Haikal has lodged with it.

In a statement Sunday night an Israeli Army spokesman said Jordan mortar fire killed one Israeli soldier and wounded two more in another clash in the same area late Sunday. Israeli troops entrenched near Khirbet Ayala, he said, returned the fire and forced Jordan attackers back across the frontier after reinforcements arrived, he said.

The U.N. Security Council is to meet next Wednesday in New York to debate other recent Jordan-Israeli clashes.

Haikal also said a Jordanian farmer was kidnapped by Israelis and shot dead near Zababa village in Jordan's northern sector. During a clash that followed, National Guards arrested an Israeli who had penetrated more than 200 yards inside Jordan territory in a jeep, Haikal said.

Mitchell Predicts Sec. Dulles Will Be Ousted; Hall: 'Oh No'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, said Sunday the Eisenhower administration has so many foreign policy spokesmen the American people are confused. He predicted that by the end of this year Secretary of State Dulles will be replaced.

To this Republican National

Chairman Leonard Hall responded: "Oh, no."

The exchange came during an NBC TV debate ("American Forum of the Air") in which Hall and Mitchell were quizzed by a panel of Democratic and Republican Senators and House members.

Police Chief's Slaying Indian Is 'Justifiable'

GORDON, Neb. (AP)—A coroner's jury has ruled that the death of Vincent Broken Rope, 34, resulted from a bullet wound "justifiably inflicted by Clarence Lane in the performance of his duty as a police officer."

The ruling late Saturday night ended an inquest which had been started Wednesday by Sheridan County Attorney John Keriakades into the Tuesday death of Broken Rope, wounded March 17, by Police Chief Lane.

Keriakades said Lane told this story: The police chief was called by a woman who complained that Broken Rope was intoxicated. The officer put the Indian in the police car, then went after Mrs. Broken Rope, also alleged to have been drinking.

Then Broken Rope left the car and "came at" the police chief. Lane's shirt was sliced and he suffered a stomach wound when the Indian swung at him. A knife was alleged to have been used. Broken Rope ran and Lane fired two warning shots. The Indian didn't stop and Lane fired a third shot.

The third shot hit Broken Rope, an Indian from the Pine Ridge, S.D., reservation, in the back. Broken Rope was buried Saturday at Wounded Knee, S.D.

Post-Mortem Set On Body Found In Car

OMAHA (AP)—A post-mortem will be performed Monday on the body of Albert Ferguson, 31, who was found inside his burning automobile early Sunday, Acting Coroner George Sullivan said.

Ferguson was a barber at Offutt Air Force Base.

A half brother of Ferguson, Willis Jones, 44, told detectives and fire department investigators that he arrived home about 3:30 a.m. and noticed the Ferguson auto parked in the rear with fog lights burning.

Jones said he went to the car and found it was burning inside with all windows and doors closed. He called the fire department after he failed to douse the fire with a bucket of water.

Firemen pulled Ferguson's body from the car. Detectives said the body, partially nude, did not appear to have come into direct contact with flames. Investigators said only a seat cushion was totally destroyed by fire.

Accident Victim Is 'Fair To Poor'

Miss Margaret N. Boynton, 72, of 1605 Washington was reported in "fair to poor condition" early Monday morning at St. Elizabeth's Hospital after suffering injuries in a pedestrian-car accident at 17th and Washington.

She suffered a fractured right hip, skull fracture, head lacerations and a bruised left arm when she stepped off a bus and walked across the street colliding with a car driven by Charles R. Graham, 20, of 1458 Garfield on Saturday night.

Officer Edwin Kringle, after investigating the accident, said the woman was carried 20 feet by the car, then pitched or rolled another 21 feet.

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman passed up his usual early morning stroll Sunday—he was up late Saturday night and besides it was raining.

His 70th birthday party—a $70-a-plate banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria—was what kept him up late.

More than 1,000 persons attended the dinner, which raised some $70,000 for the Harry S. Truman Library, a project he is very fond of. The library, in Missouri, will house his presidential papers.

Another accomplishment of the Eisenhower administration, Hall said, is the recognition that "we are not going to get into war without Congress having something to say about it."

He said the Truman administration had gotten the United States involved in Korea at the cost of several billion dollars without Congress having a voice in the matter.

Hall denied a charge by Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash.) that Eisenhower had repudiated a promise to support better than 90 per cent of parity for farmers and switched to Secretary of Agriculture Benson's flexible supports.

Eisenhower never promised 90 per cent parity, Hall said, but only meant he hoped "the farmer would get as much for his dollar in the market place."

Mitchell disputed a contention by Sen. Purtell (R-Conn.) that Democrats in the Senate shelved proposals to amend the Taft-Hartley Law in order to avoid a showdown on a Fair Employment Practices provision and Purtell's proposal for a pre-strike vote.

Real Reason
The real reason for voting to send the bill back to the Labor Committee, Mitchell said, was because the proposed Taft-Hartley revisions were not "what Candidate Eisenhower" promised in 1952.

Mitchell, in answer to a question, said the Democrats were running this year on the programs of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations. He disputed the Republican contention that the voters had "repudiated" those programs in 1952.

The Democratic chairman accused the Republicans of trying to focus attention on past scandals involving Democrats in order to divert attention from scandals within their own camp.

College Heads Praise Choice Of Chancellor

Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, newly appointed University of Nebraska chancellor, is "one of the ablest administrators and scholars in our land grant colleges," President James A. McCain of Kansas State College said.

"He is superbly qualified to head your distinguished university," Dr. McCain said. "It will be a great pleasure to be associated with him."

Dr. McCain was in Lincoln last month as guest speaker at the annual University of Nebraska Honors Convocation.

James Hilton, president of Iowa State College, also congratulated the University on its selection of Dr. Hardin.

"He is an able administrator and a distinguished scientist," Dr. Hilton said. "We welcome him as a neighbor."

Dr. Hardin has a fine opportunity for service in an outstanding institution," President G. L. Gross of the University of Oklahoma said.

"I am happy to join with others in welcoming him to our area," Dr. Gross said.

Letter From POW Son Who Chose Communism Brightens Mother's Day

ALDEN, Minn. (AP)—Letters from her prisoner of war son who chose Communism instead of repatriation brightened Mother's Day for Mrs. Portia Howe.

A letter from Pfc. Richard R. Tenneson, dated March 28 and postmarked Tiyyuan, China, arrived at the Howe farm Saturday. Another somewhat shorter note from Tiyyuan was delivered to Mrs. Howe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jensen, Clarks Grove, Minn., about the same time.

The March 28 letter to the Jensens had the same date as their 46th wedding anniversary. However, Mrs. Howe said she thought that was probably a coincidence.

In his letter to his mother, Tenneson said he was in good health. He said he was resting and would go to work shortly.

Just where he had been since January, the last time Mrs. Howe heard from him, was not mentioned, nor did Tenneson say when he would write again.

"There was no indication in his letter," said Mrs. Howe, "as to how he is being housed or fed. These are things a mother would like to know." Still, cheerful and pleased with this latest contact, she said, "It makes this a much nicer Mother's Day."

Tenneson said he wrote the letter after attending church. No mention was made of any of the other 21 Americans who refused repatriation, but Tenneson used the term "we" when referring to the impending work.

Mrs. Howe, 43, flew to Japan last Dec. 9 in a dramatic but futile attempt to win young Tenneson back from the Communists.

'Frightening Majority' Of State School Children Have Dental Trouble—Heinz

OMAHA (AP)—The Nebraska State Dental Association was told Sunday that a frightening majority of 242,267 school-age children in Nebraska have anywhere from one decayed tooth to a mouth filled with dental trouble.

The fact was brought out in a paper read to the association by Dr. H. W. Heinz of Lincoln, director of the Nebraska Health Department's division of dental health.

Dr. Heinz said from 95 to 98 per cent of the young Nebraskans have dental troubles.

"It is almost as prevalent as the common cold," he declared. Dr. Heinz said a portion of the trouble might be caused by a shortage of dentists. He said 12 counties do not have a dentist and only 887 dentists are listed for 1,325,510 persons living in Nebraska.

He added that many of the dentists are at or near the retirement age and some are not active in their profession.

Because of this shortage, he went on, 18,000 persons—nearly 4,000 of them school children—do not get adequate dental care.

Dulles To Present His United Front For Asia Idea Tuesday

Will Appear Before Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles goes before the House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday for a closed-door session that probably will revolve around the question of building collective security in Southeast Asia.

The special session was called, committee officials said, at the mutual request of the secretary and the congressional group, as has been done in the past. Dulles already has met twice with congressional leaders since returning from the Geneva Conference.

The House committee would be a good starting point for what appears to be an attempt by Dulles to win strong and clear backing for his United Front plan.

The committee has called repeatedly for the creation of a Pacific equivalent of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and has written this recommendation into past foreign aid bills.

Congress willing Congress in general appears willing to support the idea of equipping and training more Asian forces, although many key members remain skeptical that this can be done in the immediate future.

Here are some of the complexities:

In Indo-China, as Dulles said, non-Communist forces need definite assurances of full independence from the French before they will show sufficient spirit to build a fighting force. Then they will need long training before a competent, self-contained army will be possible. But there are grave doubts that, regardless of the outcome at Geneva, the French can be persuaded to continue fighting for territory whose control they would have to give up.

Outside of Indo-China, the pro-American forces within Southeast Asia are limited to Thailand's American-trained troops and to soldiers and police operating under the British in Malaya. American officers in Bangkok say more than 100,000 Thais would fight well for their homeland but the total of trained manpower is limited. British officials estimate the collapse of Indo-China would intensify their own anti-Communist war in Malaya—perhaps tenfold. This doubtless would pin down available native and British forces in that peninsula.

Burma, the most vulnerable nation of this area, and Indonesia, the most populous, both are so neutralist they resist any important outside help to build up forces barely able to keep internal order. India, the powerhouse of Western Asia, also remains neutralist.

Pakistan's well-trained but still under-equipped army of perhaps 250,000 is the second force available within the general area. The use of any of these forces outside of Pakistan would raise difficult political questions.

Political and military complications surround the use of the two biggest and most powerful armies of Free Asia—the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa and the South Koreans. The Foreign Affairs Subcommittee headed by Rep. Judd (R-Minn.) has said an Asian Pact would be meaningless without the inclusion of Nationalist China.

Yet to include Nationalist China must take into account the legitimate aspiration of the national government of China to return to the mainland, the group said. "It must also take into account the desire of the Republic of Korea to unite all of Korea into a single nation."

Japan has too many enemies among its former conquered subjects for its fledgling army to be used outside of its own islands, even if domestic politics permitted this move.

Police Give Free Speedometer Check

Lincoln motorists lined up a block and a half for most of the day to get a free check on their speedometer from Lincoln police. The tests were held at the Fairgrounds from 10:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday.

With new speed limits set and police using radar, worried motorists by the hundreds ran their cars through the three block check to help prevent a future ticket. The motorists were told to keep an even speed and drive through a radar check point. A policeman at the end of the "run" received the correct speed via two-way radio and notified the driver of it. Police left it up to the motorist to correct his own speedometer. (Star Photo)

STAN DELAPLANE'S

POSTCARD

The problem of traveling is that nobody understands you. Speak English and you find yourself among the wash basins. Speak French and they think you are speaking broken English.

French taxis do not have ashtrays. I found one though the other day while riding the front seat. As I flipped the ash, the driver let out a great cry of despair.

"Mais non, Monsieur," he said. "That is where I keep my money."

Restaurants are the tourist's first problem. For everyone must eat. And French food is the world's greatest. The little knife and fork laid cross-ways at the top of the plate is not to cut yours (or the waiter's) throat. It is for fruit or cheese. Both are eaten with a knife and fork in Europe.

If the menu is beyond your reading, ask for the specialty. This is so close to the French word that any waiter will understand it. The specialty is not something excess being pushed. It is the pride and joy of the owner.

A handy little pocket booklet is the "Travel Tips for France." They put out five. Five countries for $1. France was written by Mr. Jim Nolan, the debonair TWA press agent for Europe. So I know it is good.

This has a list of restaurants, hotels, where to go. And a list of menu words. Use these words carefully and you will wind up with turkey wings when you order steak. What I mean, you can't win.

Mr. Nolan's guide includes information on tipping. There is no information on tipping of value. Not even mine. But since you press me—

A service charge of 15 per cent is usually on the bill. The French let it go at that. Rich Americans pay no attention to it. They add 20 per cent anyway. This gives French waiters the idea that most Americans are delightfully mad. And those who don't give 20 per cent are rich misers.

Mr. Nolan, who lives in Paris, advises adding a few extra francs. Enough, say, to bring the 15 per cent service charge up to 20 per cent.

Mr. Nolan advises this but habitually gives 10 per cent more.

I have talked to many people in the business about tipping. "It depends on the service," they say vaguely.

Well, if you will pardon me, I will say tipping depends on your nerve. Can you walk into "21" in New York, order a 90-cent drink, give the bartender $1 and say "Keep the change?"

French soap is sometimes served in French hotels. Mostly not. But the French have excellent soap. You go to Pristic, the 5-and-10, and buy a soap dish. Then go out and buy a bar of Coty or Chanel or Guerlain. About 30 cents or 50 here. Double that in New York. Taxi drivers get the difference in the round figure. A 130-franc ride, he gets 150. A 180-franc ride, 200.

The doorman gets 50 francs for calling him. The wine steward is tipped separately from the waiter. About 200 francs or 100 per bottle served. McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The 'Speed Trap'

A car whizzes by the radar check point between the cones to determine the accuracy of the car speedometer. Many cars went through the test more than once at different speeds. (Star Photo.)

Radar Operator

Giving a speed reading instead of a ticket, radar operator Mel Green relays the motorists radar clocked speed down to the end of the line where another officer gives the speed to the motorist to check with his own speedometer reading. (Star Photo.)

Over 1,000 Receive Radar Speedometer Check; About Half Are 'On The Nose'

Lincoln Police checked off a car every half minute as more than 1,000 motorists took their cars through a radar speedometer check at the Fairgrounds Sunday.

Officers reported that more than half the cars had accurate speedometers. Most of the speedometers that were off, they said, missed being accurate by two or three miles-an-hour.

However, it was not always the older cars that showed incorrect speedometer readings, police said. One new car showed a speedometer that was eight miles-an-hour off. The motorist luckily had his speedometer set above the radar clocked speed.

Police said most motorists that found their speedometers above the radar reading were content to allow themselves such leeway against the city's radar network.

Officers Melvin Dorn and William Christine gave instructions to the motorists while radar operators Gail Gade and Mel Green clocked the stream of cars coming in from 17th Street.

The cars were driven on a three-block stretch of road past radar set on a tripod. The drivers were told to drive at an even speed between 40 feet of markers.

The speed, automatically recorded by radar, was relayed via two-way radio down the road a block to where another officer received the speed and gave it to the driver of the car to compare with his speedometer check past the cones.

Many of the drivers went through the "speed trap" several times to get an accurate check of their speedometer at different speeds.

No plans have yet been made for another free speedometer check by local police.

Marines Surprised At Surprise Party But Meet Occasion

EDENTON, N. C. (AP)—A group of Cherry Point Marines had a surprise party for their departing commander. And more than Col. Douglas Canavan were surprised.

Just as the Marines started serving barbecue a commercial airliner made an emergency landing at the Cherry Point auxiliary landing field, and 88 passengers and four crew members stepped off.

Four hours later the passengers and crew, rested and full of barbecue, boarded a relief plane and continued their northward journey.

They had accepted the Marines' invitation to join the party.

Carpenter Off And Running For Senate

Sen. Terry Carpenter announced on the adjournment of the special session of the Legislature that he plans to immediately start his campaign for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator.

The Scottsbluff businessman said that he and his wife and two sons would start a tour of all the smaller localities of the state and visit with all the voters possible. "Residents of the larger cities I probably will have to reach by use of television and radio," Carpenter said, "but I want to talk personally to the people wherever I can get a crowd of 50 and I think this will be possible in every locality."

'Not With McCarthy'

Asked if he would attend the G.O.P. pre-primary convention in Fremont, Carpenter said he would not. "I would not want to appear on the same platform with Sen. McCarthy," he explained.

McCarthy was obtained as the keynote speaker for the convention by Dave Martin of Kearney while chairman of the state central committee and before he also became a candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Carpenter was one of the original supporters of President Eisenhower, but says he thinks the administration has made some mistakes. While he is still a supporter of the President, Carpenter says he cannot support what he thinks is mistakes and particularly mentioned the Benson farm program.

Demos Vote GOP

The Scottsbluff candidate predicted that particularly in the non-metropolitan areas, where registration of voters is not required, that many Democrats will ask for Republican ballots.

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP) — Dr. Henry F. Grady, former U.S. Ambassador to India, Greece and Iran, announced the formation of the non-partisan northern California committee for the recall of Sen. Such voters recent bringing of Sen. McCarthy to Nebraska and the domination of the Sen. Butler forces over the Republican party in Nebraska."

Sen. Hugh Carson of Ord meanwhile said he was taking the receipt for the filing fee paid for him back home. Asked if he was going to use it, he said, "I definitely will unless there are more entries in the race for governor on the Republican ticket. I do not like and do not believe the voters like to have all the candidates come from Lincoln."

Carson established a record at the special session of being the only member to oppose all of the proposed constitutional amendments. He signed, however, the petition of Sen. Carpenter for another special session to get immediate action on tax legislation.

The Need: Realistic View

This is to call attention to the column written by Mark Childs which appears elsewhere on this page.

Mr. Childs has been abroad now for weeks. He has the happy faculty of being able to talk with the right people in his job of gathering up the facts. And he calls his shots as he sees them, regardless of where the chips land.

He does not say so directly, but it is very apparent that in the judgment of this seasoned observer, our present troubles in Indo-China in part may be charged to an unrealistic view of what actually is happening among Asia's crowded masses.

When we talk about China, Mr. Childs says, men who have had a great deal of experience in China and, as a result, men who should be better able to talk about China, feel that the greatest weakness of American foreign policy today is the disposition to close our eyes to the facts, possibly poke cotton in our ears, and see and hear only that which we want to see and hear.

The idea that Chiang Kai-Shek's soldiers are the answer to Red China is fantastic in the opinion of these mature, experienced diplomats, Mr. Childs says. Likewise, the notion that famine or other internal developments within Red China will come to the rescue of the West is more wishful thinking. American policy and American opinion are based not on present-day reality, but what the Americans persist in hoping is true. Maybe we'd better march back and start all over again.

Everyday experience demonstrates that on many occasions there is a vast difference between what really is and what we would like to think are the facts.

Truman Spurns Gift Of Car, Buys His Own

WASHINGTON—Harry Truman, longtime ranking member of the Pearson non-administration society, may be a bit surprised to read this story about him on the week of his 70th birthday. But I hope he won't deny it as he has some stories in the past.

K. T. Keller, chairman of the Chrysler Corporation, told a group at the famed Bohemian grove in California that he had telephoned the ex-President and told him he wanted him to have a Chrysler car.

"Lincolns seemed to have had the inside track at the White House while you were there," he told Truman, "and now General Motors is in favor. But we want you to use a Chrysler."

Mr. Truman replied that he had been thinking about a Chrysler himself.

"What kind of a model do you suggest?" he asked.

"Our best model is the Imperial," Keller replied.

"That sounds a little too swanky for me. What else do you recommend?"

"Our New Yorker is next," said Keller. "However, Mr. President, I hope you realize that we want you to have this car with our compliments."

Mr. Truman demurred. "I'm a private citizen now," he said. "I don't think I should get any privileges that wouldn't come to any other private citizen."

"But we'll get lots of publicity from this car, and we want to give it to you," Keller remonstrated.

"I don't care if you get a million dollars' worth of publicity. The office of the President should not be exploited even when I leave it. I'm going to have a Chrysler all right. But I'm going to pay for it."

And he did. This is the car Harry Truman has been driving.

"Is there anyone here," concluded Keller, as he told the story to the Bohemian Club group, "who would have turned down a similar offer?"

McCarthy and aides have been chortling with glee over a piece of dynamite they are holding in reserve to spring on Army Counselor John G. Adams when he gets on the witness stand.

At first blush it might look as if McCarthy had something. On second blush his dynamite looks slightly damp. Anyway, here are the facts and the public can judge for itself.

The alleged Army scandal pertaining to blood plasma and the purchase of substitute blood plasma is all-important in case of atomic attack, and since real blood plasma is limited, the Army plans to stockpile a huge quantity of a new substitute, dextran blood plasma expander—in fact, two pints for every man, woman and child in the U.S.A. It will be stored ready for use.

However, a Swedish firm, the Pharmacia Company, has filed patent claims on dextran and demands a royalty from the United States. With a goal of two pints for every person, this obviously would run into a lot of money, and it was at this point that Army Counselor John G. Adams stepped into the picture. It's also why McCarthy has been rubbing his hands with glee.

ADAMS' COMPROMISE

For the Justice Department has declared Pharmacia's patents invalid, and though Pharmacia immediately appealed to the courts, Adams, as Army counselor, had to decide whether to accept the Justice Department's word and get involved in a long legal battle, or make a compromise with Pharmacia.

So he hired a New York lawyer, Frank A. Bowers, as special legal adviser to make a study of the whole thing.

DEAL WITH SWEDES

Bowers finally recommended a compromise by which the Army would pay Pharmacia 10 cents a pound royalty for dextran up to 100,000 pounds a year, with five cents a pound royalty over 100,000.

"A payment, not royalty, of a minimum of $100,000 for each year," was the exact language of Bowers' recommendation. "If the purchases run up to 200,000 pounds, there will be a royalty of five cents per pound on all blood plasma expander purchased or produced by the government."

This would add up to an estimated $17,000,000 over the life of the patent, and the Justice Department raised a howl. They had already ruled that the patent was invalid and there was no obligation to the Swedish company.

However, Counselor Adams backed the compromise. And in an unpublished letter to Secretary of the Army Stevens, April 5, he wrote:

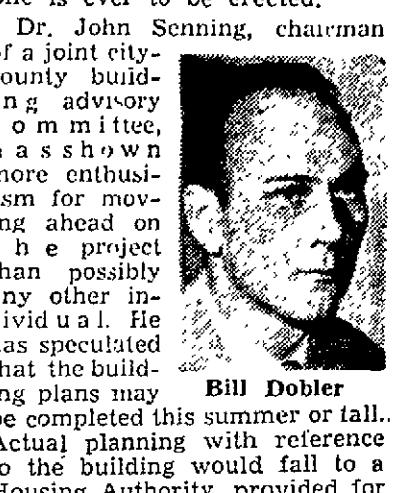

"It is recommended that a settlement be sought with Pharmacia if you concur. I shall prepare the appropriate letter to the Department of Justice outlining the views stated and recommended. . . . Revoke the adjustment act order and negotiate on the basis that the patent is at least of questionable validity. The negotiations would take into consideration that the claimants, Pharmacia, have contributed very valuable information to the field of blood plasma expander."

WRONG LAWYER

It was when this leaked out that Joe McCarthy began chortling. McCarthy's lawyers in New York are Fish, Richardson and Neave, of which Frank A. Bowers is reportedly a member.

In other words, Counselor Adams, the man McCarthy hates, apparently had played right into McCarthy's hands by appointing as so-called neutral counsel a man who worked for the Swedish firm's law firm.

This column, however, checking on McCarthy's secret impending exposure, found that the lawyer working for the Swedish attorneys is "Frank A. Barrows," an entirely different person from Frank A. Bowers, appointed by the Army. (Copyright 1954 By Bell Syndicate)

Anyone who ever visits the City Hall can easily see the need for haste in starting a new city-county office building if one is ever to be erected.

Dr. John Senning, chairman of a joint city-county building advisory committee, has shown more enthusiasm for moving ahead on the project than possibly any other individual. He has speculated that the building plans may be completed this summer or fall. Actual planning with reference to the building would fall to a Housing Authority, provided for legislatively at the regular session of the unicameral.

If there is to be such a building, it hoped that Dr. Senning's speculation is accurate. Every day the city occupies the existing City Hall, it is costing the taxpayers more money—money that would be saved if there was a new building.

And the county has recently had a similar experience. As a matter of fact, county officials were subjected to considerable criticism for installing a new elevator in their old county building in the face of a proposed new city-county building.

The city might be in for the same criticism, only on a smaller scale. The work the city is continually doing at the City Hall is not too costly according to individual projects but when the projects pile up year after year, they amount to a sizable spending.

Minor structural alterations have been under way at the City Hall since the beginning of this fiscal year to squeeze out more working space and other improvements, such as new lighting fixtures and air conditioning, have been added to increase efficiency.

It is hard to view such improvements critically, however, in view of the need. While the work may be considered a waste of money if a new building is to be constructed, it is work that is badly needed for the day-to-day operation of the city.

But all work on either the City Hall or county courthouse proves the need for moving ahead with plans for a new building. The sooner the new building is completed the sooner costly repairs to the existing inadequate structures can be saved.

Plans are progressing for the special election city officials hope to hold June 8 to present a number of charter changes and bond issues to the people.

The two bond issue proposals, for off-street parking and storm sewers, have been sent to expert bond attorneys in Chicago for approval. The important thing, however, will be the approval of the voters at the polls.

Any one who drives a car in Lincoln does not need to be told of the lack of adequate parking facilities. When downtown shopping hits a good pace, it is nearly impossible to find a place to park. Even the privately operated parking lots find many occasions to use their "no vacancy" signs.

This is the fault of no one in particular, but rather the expected results of a growing city. It is up to the city officials to find a cure for the situation.

The cure they are offering is the revenue bond issue to raise funds with which to buy or lease off-street parking facilities. The next step in the cure is up to the voters.

Of even greater importance is the storm sewer bond issue. While general obligation bonds are the unpopular variety, these would be painless for taxpayers. At least, they would make things no more painful than they are to day.

If issued, the storm sewer bonds could be paid off every year at the same rate that sewers are now being constructed—about $200,000 a year. Thus, the bond issue would mean no increase in taxes and would give everyone the sewers they need at once.

The critical sewer situation in the city was again emphasized in relation to a paving district now under consideration in area around 15th and Stockwell. There are a dozen or so blocks in that area where paving is wanted by many persons.

But before the paving is laid, storm sewers should be constructed. Storm sewer work has never been a part of paving costs and has always been paid by the city, not abutting property owners.

In this case, however, the storm sewer work comes to some $24,000 and the city doesn't have the money. All the current storm sewer funds have been earmarked for other important projects with years of neglect behind them.

If the coming storm sewer bond issue is not approved, the city will continue to fall farther and farther behind in that department. As the sewer needs of 10 to 15 years ago are being met, the needs as they arise today are being stockpiled for tomorrow's headache.

There will be a lot of important issues on the June 8 ballot but none of them will mean as much to all Lincoln residents as approval of the storm sewer bond issue.

At Least 50 Per Cent Right

Nebraska's Third District Representative, Cong. Harrison, was at least 50 percent right when appearing before the House Agriculture Committee he said this:

"Half the people of the free world remain ill-fed and ill-clad, yet these people could pay for the products they need."

That raises the question of why they do not fill their bellies and clothe their nakedness. It is not natural human behavior for a human being, regardless of color, language or customs, to go hungry for the sheer pleasure of the gnawing pangs of undernourishment. Nor in those world areas where backward peoples wear clothes do they go naked or poorly clad for the fun of it.

Rep. Harrison has a bill, still in committee hands, which would authorize the sale of surpluses for local currencies to nations not able to pay in dollars. The local currencies received in payment would in turn be used (by Uncle Sam) to buy strategic materials, military equipment and service and to meet obligations or to give aid dollars abroad in lieu of spending tax dollars.

There must be a hooker here someplace. Mr. Harrison himself anticipates it when he says his plan should not operate to dislocate the economies of other peoples and nations. Perhaps he has never enjoyed the boyhood sport of standing on the bank of a stream, tossing a small rock into the water and then idly watching the resulting ripple spread. That is what happens frequently in economics.

There was another pleasant note in Mr. Harrison's appearance before the House committee. He said he had no sympathy with those who are ashamed of our abundance. Then he had to spoil it all by insisting that the same people, apparently, want to give it away or in some way hide it.

This would be a very beautiful world if all of its hundreds of millions of people were in the position to consume everything of a useful character, particularly when it gets down to the simple matter of food. All Americans will welcome new uses for agricultural products and new markets, but in the same breath, it will be recognized that there has been some difficulty in discovering them.

They Must Be Fed

In another one of its inscrutable movements, nature is busying itself greatly multiplying the world's population. Now standing at 2½ billion it has been estimated by the Social Service Division of the United Nations that the world will have 4 billion people 30 years hence.

The figures become more thought-provoking when the areas of growth are viewed. It is normally considered that growth goes along with improving environment. But in Europe, United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand where there are superior provisions for humankind, the growth is only nominal. The big gains are being made in the less fortunate areas—Asia, Africa and Russia and some in the Latin American countries.

A great majority of the newcomers are being born into Communism and most of them are arriving where methods for providing food and shelter are primitive and have never been adequate.

Perhaps here is developing the great coming problem of Communism and also perhaps here is the great opportunity for the abundant West with its fine industrial machine and its production know-how. Lack of food has lost more wars than bullets have won.

The West, American especially, has a great deal to offer to these newcomers worldlings. But it must quit viewing plenty as a curse. It must look at it rather as the greatest machine for survival and enlightenment ever placed in the hands of man.

Vital Part Of The Case (From the St. Louis Post Dispatch)

President Eisenhower's comment on the case of J. Robert Oppenheimer will not, we fear, lay at rest the anxieties of the scientific community over the security system and the role of scientists in government research.

The President at his news conference last week said he knew and admired Dr. Oppenheimer as a scientist of great professional attainments, but that the evidence against him made necessary his suspension and the current investigation. Mr. Eisenhower then emphatically corrected himself to substitute for the word "evidence" the word "allegations."

This comment raises but does not dispose of one of the crucial issues of the whole affair:

How necessary in fact was the government's action in suspending Dr. Oppenheimer and instituting a panel inquiry? And if it was necessary, why?

Should the Gordon Gray board which is now hearing the charges against Dr. Oppenheimer decide that the evidence does not support them, and that Dr. Oppenheimer therefore is not a security risk, these questions would immediately become very important.

For the fact is that Dr. Oppenheimer has already been publicly branded, in a provisional way, as a security risk. This happened the moment it became known that he had been suspended as a consultant, denied security clearance, and subjected to a panel investigation.

If that provisional judgment against him turns out to have been mistaken, then the question of how and why the judgment was made becomes extremely pertinent.

Was it made on the basis of new evidence not present when Dr. Oppenheimer was previously cleared? Was it made on the basis of a new evaluation of such evidence, and on what grounds? Was it made because certain Senators were clamoring for action against Dr. Oppenheimer—that is to say, was the judgment made under political pressure?

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

May turned on one of its most disarming smiles for the traditional Ivy Day exercises of the University of Nebraska. . . and whenever either May or June in this region decides to put on its best bib and tucker, it can be very enchanting.

There has been so much from the outside ever since 1940 to occupy people's attention that some of the very finely rooted ceremonies which are part of campus life at the University of Nebraska have suffered when it came to attracting public attention. . . . Fact is that each year of added maturity has enhanced the prestige of these undergraduate traditions. . . . They are becoming more colorful and more important year by year. . . . the crowning of a May queen, planting of the ivy, announcement of new members for organizations emphasizing undergraduate activities have become well established, yet never lose anything by way of appeal to the young people because the same ceremonies took place a year earlier. . . . Ivy Day is a very special incident in the minds of thousands of loyal Nebraskans.

There was a laugh the other day at a very small luncheon when one of the distinguished guests was introduced. . . . He, the toastmaster explained, was the man who would tell his listeners all about the butter problem.

On the more serious side, the state-federal crop statistician, A. E. Anderson, called attention to the importance of the busy little hen to Nebraskans in 1953. . . . Gross income from chickens and eggs in this state last year was estimated in excess of 73 million dollars, it was reported. . . . Of that gross income, 76 percent came from eggs, 18 percent from farm chickens and six percent from commercial broilers. . . . Forgotten now, thanks to good crops and good prices, in the early 30's most of Nebraska's farm families depended entirely or to a great extent on the money from chickens, eggs, cream and butter. . . . The farm wife knows what butter and egg money means. . . . For 10 years now the actual cash income from poultry and from dairy herds has been equal to the money received for any single grain crop in this state except King Corn.

Within a few days now home owners in Lincoln and Lancaster County and the owners of other classes of real estate will know the results of the reappraisal of values which has been in progress for the better part of two years. . . . Cards giving each owner the news, good or bad, of the value placed upon each individual's real estate will be mailed out. . . . Then there will be an opportunity for the owner to protest. . . . Chances are the Board of Equalization will have its hands full.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Is America Closing Its Eyes To Truth?

GENEVA — One can detect here at Geneva a deep undercurrent of distrust over American policy—or lack of it—on Communist China. With the Chinese Communists taking such an intransigent stand, this distrust is not likely to be allayed in the subject of constant discussion in private among most of the delegates.

There are many persons here with wide knowledge of China, both past and present, quite apart of course from the Communist delegations, who maintain a sphinxlike silence behind their own security curtain. These officials and observers range from West German diplomats with years of experience in China to those who have just now come from Peiping. What they say in private interviews adds up to a picture of China quite different from the one developed in America out of rumor, propaganda and wishful thinking.

In other words, American opinion and American policy are based not on present-day realities but on what Americans persist in hoping is true. With many segments of American opinion underestimating the power of the Communist regime, encouraging the belief that Nationalist Chinese forces from Formosa could be sent to the mainland to touch off a widespread revolt, this lack of realism is a peril to American security. The basis of a number of interviews are the realities as non-Communist Europe sees them. First, the power of the Peiping regime has been widely recognized. This has been done, broadly speaking, in two ways.

The familiar techniques of totalitarian control have been extended to the farthest villages with considerable effectiveness. This is the brutal stick of Communism—neighbor reporting on neighbor, the constant stream of propaganda of threat and promise, enough trial and punishment to intimidate.

The Communist hierarchy at the top in Peiping show they can learn from the mistakes made by the Russians. For example, in this phase when the Peiping regime is pushing toward a socialist state, the collectivization of the land is being advanced with great caution in the hope the peasants will not be alienated. A sort of "will you walk into my parlor?" technique is being used, with the peasant farmer lured into successive stages of cooperative farming until he finds himself part of a collective

This letter will probably never be read and it will no doubt, by its simplicity, amuse those who do, but it is an honest opinion from one of that body of people which you and our Government are pledged to serve—the private citizen.

When American troops were called out—without Congressional vote—to intervene in a Civil War of Korea, a nation 10,000 miles away, I was horrified; but finally reconciled myself to the idea that it was a blunder of a young Nation, new to World leadership, groping blindly for a way to combat Russian imperialism.

Since Korea is today, still a nation divided and the Russians didn't lose a man, while we had 130,000 casualties, and using our resources in the process, I fail to see what was accomplished.

I was again horrified when our Government appropriated $750,000,000 for war materials to help put down the ignorant natives of Indo-China, whose only crime is to want a full belly and to be independent of foreign domination.

To add irony to this situation, our Government "economized" on its own people at the same time, by cutting down its already paltry appropriation for cancer research; leaving the combating of such killers of American people, as cancer and polio, to the nebulous agencies of whiskey raffles and bingo.

Now you are seeking Congressional sanction for authority to send American boys to Indo-China to kill innocent people on the other side of the Globe. You are pondering this step.

But, ponder it well, Mr. President, the step is greater than perhaps you think. America's future lies in the balance. Will she go the way of Rome, through the use of immoral force, to decadence and oblivion, or will she fulfill her destiny as charted by our Founding Fathers, the Champion of Free Men everywhere and the "World's last, best hope."

The awful choice is yours.

As a lover of my Country, its institutions and its glorious heritage, I can only say, Washington, "how shouldst be living at this hour."

In closing, Mr. President, I wish to make it plain that the above thoughts do not come from Moscow, but from a human heart.

Miss Marcia Bekins Is Bride

For the wedding of Miss Marcia Kathryn Bekins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bekins of Omaha, and Clifford Rue Rahel, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifford Rahel, also of Omaha, which was solemnized at an afternoon ceremony on Saturday, May 8, the chancel of the First Presbyterian church in Omaha was appointed with tall sprays of white apple blossoms arranged in pedestal urns and placed against a background of huckleberry boughs and woodwardia. Lighted cathedral candles in seven-branched holders completed the decor, and the processional aisle was marked with nosegays of white stock and blue delphinium. Dr. Thomas Nevin read the lines of the 4:30 o'clock service.

The bride's attendants were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frederick Melvin Bekins, who was her matron of honor, and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Allan K. Shackleton of Ft. Wayne, Ind., the bridesmaid. Their alike frocks were fashioned of forget-me-not blue silk taffeta fashioned with fitted bodices, in which the wide, bateau necklines slipped into brief shoulder sleevelets, and short skirts that were draped from the straight front accented back fullness. Their hats were circlets of matching taffeta and forget-me-nots, and they carried white camellias and blue delphinium. Allan K. Shackleton of Ft. Wayne, Ind., served Mr. Rahel as best man, and seating the guests were Frederick Melvin Bekins and Clarence Landed Jr.

A gown of white Pointe d'Esprit over tulle was chosen by the bride for her wedding. The off-shoulder bodice, with its brief, band sleeves, was contoured with a minute edging of Chantilly lace, and sprinkled with miniature jewels. The lace edging was repeated on the infantia skirt with a pattern of festoons, from the hem to the hipline where they were caught with a floral motif of lace applique dotted with jewels. Her tiered, waist-length veil was caught to the head with a bandeau of lace, ornamented with rhinestones, and she carried a bouquet of white spray orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Omaha Country club where the crescent-shaped refreshment table was arranged with a cloth of white net over satin, and swagged with smilax and white camellias. White stock and blue delphinium appointed the terrace tables.

Mr. Rahel and his bride will reside in Omaha upon their return from a honeymoon trip to the west coast for which the bride wore a navy wool costume suit, with white accessories.

Mrs. Rahel attended Bradford Junior College, Bradford, Mass., and the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Delta Gamma. The bridegroom attended the University of Colorado at Boulder and is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

TOWN TALK

THERE seems to be quite a supply of conversation this morning and you may take your choice of topics—We can tell you of a guest who has come and gone—and of a new arrival in Omaha—and say a few words pertaining to some activity that involves some out-of-towners who will be in town this week.

THIS EVENING, for example, Dr. and Mrs. John A. Brown III will be a dinner host and hostess at the University Club when they entertain a guest eightome that includes out of town medicos and their wives who are here for the meetings of the Nebraska State Medical Society, and the state Auxiliary.

The guest list will include Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Erott of Beatrice; Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Runty, DeWitt; Dr. and Mrs. Paul Read, and Dr. and Mrs. Frank Mnuk of Omaha.

Following the dinner the evening will be spent informally at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Brown where the group will be joined by Dr. John DeTar of Milan, Mich., who is the speaker of the House of Delegates for the American Academy of General Prac-titoners of which Dr. Brown is the current president of the Nebraska branch of the AAGP.

AND ON Tuesday afternoon the wives of the officers of the AAGP will entertain at a coffee between the hours of 3:30 o'clock and 5 o'clock at Hotel Cornhusker when the guests will be the wives of the members of the general practitioners group.

SOMEONE told us that Mrs. Carl Burnett of Colorado Springs, Colo., paid a brief visit to Lincoln late last week when she was the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Harley. When Mrs. Burnett returned home she was accompanied by Mrs. Harley and the two small Harleys—Mary and Joe.

Wedding On Sunday

Lighted candles and pastel-toned spring flowers appointed the chancel of St. Paul Evangelical and Reformed Church Sunday evening, May 9, for the marriage of Miss Elsie Marie Runge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Runge, and Raymond W. Steinman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Steinman of Nebraska City. In the presence of 120 guests, the Rev. Arthur Crisp read the lines of the service.

Miss Mabel Runge, sister of the bride, and Miss Judith Schweitzer lighted the candles as Mrs. James Yowell sang "O Promise Me," and "The Wedding Prayer." She was accompanied by Mrs. Harold Raymer, organist.

Wearing an afternoon frock in powder blue was Mrs. Walter Maughan, who was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant.

Erhardt Steinman of Nebraska City served his brother as best man, and the ushers were William Jones of Nebraska City, and Walter J. Maughan.

Crisp white pique fashioned the bride's gown which was designed in the daytime mode. Appliqued petals dotted with rhinestones edged the V neckline of the cap-sleeved bodice, and beneath a fitted midriff, the circular skirt flared into fullness. She wore a small hat of white blossoms and carried a white Bible ornamented with a shower of white carnations and pink rosebuds. Her pearl choker and matching earrings were gifts of the bridegroom.

Following the reception, held in the church parlors, the couple left for a trip to the Ozarks, later to reside at Nebraska City. The bride has attended National Business Institute, and Mr. Steinman is a veteran of two years service with the armed forces.

The Brides' Book Says:

A June bride-to-be, Miss Buelah Olson, who will marry Dennis Perry at 7 o'clock ceremony at Grace Methodist church on June 5, is announcing the feminine members of her wedding party this morning.

Miss Charles Boughton, St. Paul, Minn., will be her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids are Miss Patricia Tipper and Miss Carole Barnes. Lighting the candles will be Miss Baker and Miss Joyce Richardson.

Hanna Rosenberg and Miss Jane Pierce will be the hostesses. Miss Schneiber will share honors with Miss Alice Longinaker, whose marriage to Paul R. Totten will be an event of June, when Miss Sharon Smith and Miss Vonda Botcher entertain at a kitchen shower and dessert supper on Saturday evening, May 22, at Cotner Terrace.

Miss Gretchen Calvert, who will become the bride of John L. Klippenstein on Friday, June 18 at St. Paul Methodist Church reveals the feminine members of her bridal party this morning. Miss Joan Klippenstein of Friend, sister of the bride groom, will be the maid of honor and the bridesmaids are Miss Marion Calvert, Miss Kathryn Calvert, and Miss Margaret Norris.

WOMAN'S EXCHANGE

Be Camera Pretty

BY JOHN POWERS

Many are the times when one might wish for a fairy godmother to perform miracles of beauty. One of these is the day you face a camera—for the formal portrait in your wedding gown, the graduation picture, the photograph that will accompany a job application, or one to appear in the newspapers with announcement of your election to a club presidency.

The product of the camera-man, whatever its purpose, should portray you at your sparkling best—natural, composed, charming. Since nobody has yet developed the technique for materializing fairy godmothers to fulfill these requirements, it's up to you to perform miracles for yourself. And you can!

First, consider your best point of view. Seldom are one's features perfectly balanced. So you want the photographer to catch your nicest angle. Even before you face the lens and the powerful lights, however, give attention to a number of appearance elements.

Your makeup: Apply your regular foundation sparingly and smoothly to all areas of your face and neck. Blend a foundation two shades darker than normal into the area of your cheekbones, to emphasize the "beauty planes" of your face. Now, powder lightly.

Your eyes: Darken the upper lashes with mascara, and outline both lower and upper lids lightly in pencil. Blend eye-shadow on the upper lid, fading into nothing at the corners.

Your lips: Shape the lips as you usually do, being careful not to exaggerate size or contour unless your lips are a mere thin line; then enlarge upon the natural shape.

Your hair: Here, again, it's smart to play natural. Plan on a shampoo the day before your photography date, so the wave will be smooth but not "set" at picture-taking time.

Brides Will Like This

June wedding bells bring May showers—for the brides, that is—and when you're planning that party for the bride-elect, include this Bridal Shower salad—your guests will love it:

Bridal Shower Salad
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1 cup fresh lemon juice
1 cup hot pineapple juice
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup crushed pineapple.

Soften gelatine in lemon juice. Add to hot pineapple juice. Stir until dissolved. Combine sugar and nutmeg and add. Chill until as thick as fresh egg whites. Fold in whipped cream, mayonnaise and pineapple. Rinse a five-cup ring salad mold in cold water and fill with the gelatine mixture. Chill until ready to serve. Turn out onto a large plate. Fill center with fruit or chicken salad. Garnish with parsley or watercress. Serve with fruit salad dressing. Yield: Eight to ten servings.

Chadron Memorial Hall Is Dedicated

Crosby Pays Tribute To Dr. Brooks

CHADRON, Neb. (AP)—Gov. Robert Crosby said Sunday it was appropriate that Chadron State Teachers College new Memorial Hall should be dedicated on Mother's Day.

The governor, principal speaker at dedication ceremonies for the $700,000 building, also recognized Dr. Wiley Brooks' 13 year service as president of the college. Dr. Brooks retires this summer.

He noted that the State Normal Board had shown faith in Chadron Teachers by approving construction of the new building, adding that the college must "by all means" be maintained and made stronger.

Gov. Crosby said Nebraska is the only state permitting high school graduates to teach.

He said the need for such a school as Chadron Teachers was made necessary by the great distances in western Nebraska.

About 400 persons attended the dedication.

The new building provides classrooms, two auditoriums, a student union and cafeteria and houses the fine arts department. It has been in use about six weeks.

The State Normal Board has scheduled a meeting at the college Monday morning.

First-Day Stamp Requests Slacken

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. (AP)—The flood of mail to the Nebraska City Postoffice had tapered off Sunday, but requests were still dribbling in for Nebraska centennial stamps.

Orders for the first day covers slackened Saturday, but Mrs. Uerkvitz said it was expected requests would continue to be received for a week.

Highway 80 Group Seeks Re-Routing

ORD, Neb. —Representatives of the Highway 80 Association and the Ord Chamber of Commerce plan to appear before State Highway Department officials this month.

The Highway 80 Association is interested in re-routing of the highway and straightening of a three-mile strip near here which now runs through a canyon.

A plan to re-route the highway on its approach to Ord from the southwest has been submitted to the County Board of Supervisors by the Chamber of Commerce.

The County Board has taken action to speed up re-routing by offering to aid the state in securing right-of-way for the highway in Valley County.

Old-As-The-State Building Destroyed

Only the lower part of the brick walls remain of the old building which is being torn down in the Plattsmouth business section. Estimated to be 100 years old, the old structure was once used for warehousing goods taken from the river boats and later transferred to overland freight wagons for shipment on west. The position of the windows gives an idea of how long the structure has stood. Heavy siltling has raised the ground level so much over the years that the old street floor had practically become a basement. The second floor windows then came almost level with the street. The respective window frames are shown by arrows. Owned by a clothing and grocery firm in Plattsmouth, the old building is being torn down to provide space for a parking lot. (Star Staff Photo.)

Tornado Anniversary Visitors Crowd Hebron

Lincoln Star Special
HEBRON, Neb.—Flying Farmers and other owners of small planes, their wives and families from over the state flew to Hebron in 150 planes Sunday for breakfast at the Hotel Hebron.

It was part of activities held on the anniversary of a tornado which did $2 million worth of damage here a year ago.

The breakfast sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, was served by members of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Tours were conducted to show visitors the progress that has been made in rebuilding the town.

The American Legion Club, formally opened Saturday night, remained open Sunday and the Country Club was open for non-members to play golf. In contrast to the rampage of the weather a year ago, the weather this Sunday was clear and bright, and made the inspection day a success.

One Hebron resident said that "the town was full of people" but added an estimate of the number of visitors would be difficult. Many brought picnic lunches, taking advantage of facilities in Willard Park here.

The first anniversary day was opened by special thanksgiving services at churches throughout Hebron.

Nehawka School Plan Hearing Set

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. (AP)—A public hearing on the proposed Nehawka area school district reorganization plan has been set tentatively for May 23 by the joint Otoe-Cass County Reorganization Committee.

William Brandt of Unadilla, chairman of the Otoe County School Reorganization Committee, said the joint two-county committee had given tentative approval to the proposed boundaries.

The proposed school district merger, if approved in its approximate present form, would give an area with some $4,500,000 in assessed valuation.

The proposed boundaries include parts of Districts 3 and 4 in Otoe County and Districts 8, 26, 60, 14, 15, 38, 19, 18 and 103 in Cass County.

How do you like your coffee?

Hot! Warm! Cool! Iced! Black! With cream! With sugar!

A million different people would have a million different answers. But probably they would all be thinking . . . "I'd enjoy my coffee more if it only cost me less."

We can't help but agree with that.

But we do have a few thoughts about coffee quality and about coffee prices. Will you spare a couple of minutes to read them?

A cup of good coffee!

There are three essential elements to a cup of good coffee . . . aroma, flavor and strength. And it takes just so much coffee with each cup of water to obtain the right balance of all three qualities.

Some coffee roasters claim you can get 60—70—or more cups from a pound of coffee. Of course you can. You can get 100 cups if you don't care how the coffee tastes, and are satisfied with just a brown-colored cup of hot water.

But, believing as we do in how a cup of good coffee should taste, we recommend the standard of measurement approved by The Coffee Brewing Institute, Inc. (2 level tablespoons of coffee to each 6-oz. cup of water).

Even at present prices, coffee made this way at home costs only about 3 cents a cup. And what else served in the American home gives so much satisfaction—to so many people—at such little cost—as a cup of good coffee!

Coffee quality and coffee prices!

The price you have to pay for coffee today concerns us just as it does you. But the cost of green coffee is the largest single factor in determining the price at which roasted coffee can be sold. And that cost is something over which we have no control. There is no coffee grown in the Continental United States. It all has to be imported at prices that have been established in a world-wide market.

We believe (and certainly hope) that coffee prices will be lower when Brazil, the largest coffee-growing country, recovers from the crop damage brought about by frost last July, and when all the Latin American countries, from which most of our green coffee comes, are again producing enough to meet the increasing world demand. We don't know how soon this will be. No one really knows.

In the meantime, we have to keep on paying the going price for the carefully selected green coffees that we must buy for our blend in order to maintain the traditional uniformity and high quality of Hills Bros. Coffee.

Never in the 76 years since our company started in business have we even considered lowering our standards . . . "giving a little less" just to sell at a lower price. That isn't the way we operate. Good coffee is the only thing that Hills Bros. know how to live with.

Considering the price you have to pay for any kind of coffee today, coffee-quality becomes more important than ever. If you have used Hills Bros. Coffee, you know what we are talking about. If you haven't—there is a pleasant surprise awaiting you.

Our new product coming

During the past few years, many people have been attracted by the convenience of Instant Coffee. Perhaps some have wondered why Hills Bros. didn't have a product of this type.

We could have offered you an Instant Coffee at any time during the last 20 years. But we have continued our research and development since 1934 because we were determined that when we put our name on Instant Coffee it would combine real coffee-quality with coffee-convenience.

Now, we can announce that before this year is out, you will begin to see our new Instant Hills Bros. Coffee on your grocer's shelf. It will be the Instant Coffee of superior quality. In your cup, it will not only look like coffee—but taste like coffee, with all its "lingering goodness." It will "Take the work out of wonderful coffee." It will guarantee you "Good Taste . . . No Work . . . No Waste."*

The best there is in coffee

Our business is "coffee exclusively," and the achieving of perfection in coffee-quality is our basic objective. That is why we can promise you that in both kinds of Hills Bros. Coffee—our ground coffee in vacuum-packed cans, and our new Instant Coffee soon to come—Hills Bros. will always give you the best there is in coffee.

GOP Seeks Limits To Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The McCarthy-Army hearings go into their 13th day Monday with a showdown imminent on a new Republican move to cut them short.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) is ready to ask a vote in the Senate Investigations Subcommittee on his proposal that further public testimony in the bitter, nationally televised controversy be limited to the two main antagonists—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Democrats are set to fight any such proposal. So is the Army side in the dispute. And a top Republican Senate leader, Sen. Millikin (Colo.), sounded a note of caution, too. He told an interviewer that in any curtailment of the probe "the public interest must be considered."

The hearings are supposed to determine whether (1) the McCarthy camp, as Army officials charge, brought improper pressure to get favors for Draftee G. David Schine, and (2) Army officials, as McCarthy charges, tried to block an investigation of alleged subversion at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Raps Demos

McCarthy, who has been supporting efforts of other Republicans to shorten the hearings, criticized Democratic members of the subcommittee in a speech in Wausau, Wis., and accused them of deliberately trying to prolong the inquiry.

"It is been clear for a long time," McCarthy said, "that their principal function is to keep us from digging out Communists."

But Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), senior Democratic member, said the controversy stems from a period last year when the Democrats were taking part in the subcommittee's activities.

"He (McCarthy) certainly had seven months without interference by Democratic members," McClellan commented in Washington. "We were off the committee in protest of an obnoxious rule which delegated to him unprecedented powers exclusively to hire and discharge and control staff members. These hearings grow out of incidents that occurred while he had that authority and no interference whatsoever from the Democrats."

McCarthy, back in Washington after his Wisconsin speech, said he endorsed Dirksen's proposal.

"This is something along the line which Welch suggested not long ago," he told reporters at the airport after he and Mrs. McCarthy left their plane. He referred to Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch.

Members of the Senate Republican Policy Committee were reported urging the White House over the week end to try to induce the Pentagon people to accept some agreement for a short-cut end to the hearings. There is a widespread feeling in the GOP that a continued inquiry can only give the Democrats ammunition for the November election campaign.

'Republican Mess'

Sen. Neely (D-W. Va.) called a tune the Republicans expect to hear often—labeling the hearings "a Republican mess."

But he added a new note, raising a question whether Stevens should resign or be fired no matter what the inquiry shows. "Some way must be found to rehabilitate the prestige of Army leadership," Neely told a reporter, adding:

"People are feeling sorry for Stevens, and humiliated over this mess in their Army's leadership. Sometimes, no matter how honest an official may be, he must be got rid of in the public interest, and there is growing doubt that the Army should be headed by someone for whom the people feel sorry."

GOP To Pick Its Chairman On Monday

Republican State Central Committee will meet here Monday to select a new chairman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dave Martin, when he filed as a candidate for the nomination for U. S. Senator.

The new chairman will appoint a new vice-chairman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Eva Bowring of Merriam, who was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sen. Dwight Griswold.

Attorney W. W. Spear of Fremont, according to pre-meeting talk, was almost certain to be named the new chairman. It was reported that he had the support of the Sen. Hugh Butler forces. However, the party members that were supporters of President Eisenhower prior to the national convention may unite on an opposition candidate.

Reports coming from Washington last week indicated that there is considerable concern over the Republican situation in Nebraska. This is evidenced by the survey being undertaken by John Quinn of Lincoln, Republicans attending the special session of the Legislature said.

Administration leaders in Washington, it was said, want a pro-Eisenhower candidate selected in Nebraska. They fear, it was said that if an ultra-conservative of the Sen. Butler type is nominated that he will be defeated in the general election.

It was pointed out that it was for that reason sentiment is being sought on the vote getting ability of former Sen. Fred Seaton, former Gov. Val Peterson and Arthur Weaver.

Veterans Building Annual Meet Set

Stockholders of the Veterans Building Corporation will hold their annual meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Monday noon, according to President Bennett S. Martin. They will review nearly eight years of owning the former Security Mutual building at 12th and O, in which the Veterans Administration has been located since 1947.

Election of directors will be held, and directors then will elect officers.

Martin will report that negotiations will begin soon with the government for a new lease, since the present arrangement will expire in March, 1955. The government has a possible option for a three-year extension, he said.

E. Philip Watkins is vice president of the corporation, Archie J. Bailey is secretary-treasurer and Ralph Tyler Sr. and John E. Curtiss complete the board of directors.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. JOE PALOOKA. By Ham Fisher

THE VILLAGERS, GATHERED IN THE SQUARE, WAIT WITH ANXIOUS HEARTS. THE CLOCK HAS NOT RUN SINCE THE DAY THE REDS EXPLODED A BOMB IN THE TOWN HALL.

THE STRANGER SAYS HE HOPES TO FIX OUR OLD CLOCK... WE MUST HAVE FAITH.

CLANK WHACK

PPOL-IN-NGG

THE NOISE STOPPED!

I HAVE TO THINK UP SOME EXCUSE FOR MARGE—I CAN'T TELL HER I WAS VISITING A SEVERE CASE OF THE HOSEA!

WHY DON'T YOU TELL HER YOU WERE VISITING A SEVERE CASE OF THE HOSEA?

THAT'S WHAT I'M GOING TO TELL YOU, I'LL VA—OVER THERE AND SEE HOW IT WORKS.

THAT'S JUST WHAT I WAS AFRAID OF—A POOR PLAN—NANI!

I'D BETTER TELL MARGE I SPENT THE DAY AT DUGGINS' CLAY-SAKE!
